I make the assumption that chance will not provide a causal mechanism and underlying structure? Yes, I do. Chance cannot provide a causal mechanism and underlying structure because because chance needs a causal mechanism and underlying structure upon which to work. There is no such thing as chance working on nothingness, only chance working on an underlying structure.

According to the documentary short Evolution vs. God, Darwinism is a leap of faith that falls far short of Creationism in explaining the mysteries of our existence. The film, which could have presented a fascinating open debate on a crucial subject, quickly devolves into a shallow-minded "gotcha" exercise.. Throughout the course of the film, we're given flashes of rapidly edited interview ...
